Passed-out driver careens toward tracks

Georgetown man charged with heroin possession

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

A Georgetown man was arrested Tuesday afternoon in Cynthiana on drug-related charges after he crashed into a ditch line that runs along the railroad tracks.

Bradley Pope, 27, was found unconscious inside a 2005 Ford pickup truck after police received a 911 call from witnesses.

Tracey Ledford and Steven Hill were seated at the church shelter near Leono's when they heard a thud followed by a loud bang.

They said they immediately called 911.

According to Cynthiana Ptl. Joe Warden, Pope had allegedly just "shot up" heroin, reloaded the syringe, passed out and drove the truck through the First United Methodist Church parking lot over a concrete wall and into the ditch.

"He was maybe a foot from the tracks," Warden said.

Pope was removed from the truck by Brown EMTs and given a dose of Narcan, which revived him in the ambulance.

Pope was released from Harrison Memorial Hospital and transported to the Bourbon County Detention Center where he is being held on two counts of possession of a controlled substance (heroin), DUI and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was also served a warrant from Fayette County on a misdemeanor parole violation.

THE END OF A NEWSPAPER ERA

Jacobs retires as publisher of The Cynthiana Democrat

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

After 38 years of ink pumping through his veins, Cynthiana Democrat publisher George Jacobs is retiring.

Nearly 2,000 editions of the newspaper have been published during his tenure.

"George is one of our most experienced publishers and operations leaders at Landmark Community Newspapers," said Dan Sykes, executive vice president of Landmark, which is the parent company of The Cynthiana Democrat.

"Many of us have sought his counsel on an array of complex issues facing the newspaper industry."

Jacobs' vast knowledge of the business comes from the various facets of the industry which are housed at the Webster Avenue plant.

Before his graduation from Harrison County High School in 1969, he worked as a janitor at the Cynthiana Publishing Co.

After he graduated high school, he attended Eastern Kentucky University for two years.

Long-time Cynthiana Democrat publisher George Jacobs will be retiring on Sept 5 after 38 years at the newspaper.

He served in the United States Army for three and a half years where he worked for the Army Security Agency as a Morse code intercept operator.

He served in Turkey for two years then returned to the United States where he was stationed at Briggs Army Air Base in El Paso, Texas.

Jacobs and his wife,

Donna McNabb Jacobs, returned to Kentucky once his tour of duty was fulfilled.

He returned to school at the University of Kentucky where he earned a communications degree with an emphasis on marketing.

"After being gone for five and half years, I did not think I would ever be back in Cynthiana to live," Jacobs recalled.

"It certainly came as a surprise when, during an interview with Landmark, they suggested that I return home."

The young Jacobs couple returned to Cynthiana where both of their families still lived.

Jacobs began his career at the Cynthiana Democrat as an advertising sales representative on Oct. 1, 1976. He was still attending classes at UK, where he had also worked as a sales rep for The Kentucky Kernel, the college newspaper. He graduated in December of 1976.

A month later, he was named advertising manager and then in June 1978, he became general manager.

His next step was publisher, but he still wasn't finished climbing.

In 1988, he became regional manager for four newspapers including The Grant County News, the Carrollton News Democrat, the Owenton News Herald and the Trimble Banner; and Standard Publishing in Shepherdsville.

Jacobs said he appreciated those who helped guide him while he learned the business.

"It takes a village," Jacobs said, quoting Hillary Clinton. "I never had a mentor per se, but a lot of people helped me understand the newspaper business and the community."

Several projects were completed during his career on the Hilltop. Rather than talk about projects for which he led

Jett, Crump hired as new officers for the Cynthiana Police Department

By BECKY BARNES, Editor
Cynthiana has two new police officers. Justin Jett and Lewis Crump wasted no time getting acquainted with the city's department. The pair graduated from the Department of Criminal Justice Training at Eastern Kentucky University on Aug. 1. By Aug. 2, each had completed their first shift. Jett has been assigned to Sgt. Eric Kendall, field training officer, and works third shift.

Crump is on first shift training with Ptl. Nathan Linville. Jett came into law enforcement following in his father's footsteps. Jeff Jett is a former Kentucky State Police Trooper. Jett, 33, is a graduate of Paris High School. He also earned a degree in psychology from the University of Kentucky. He said he worked in banking for awhile but soon decided he wanted a career in law enforcement.

Ptl. Justin Jett
"It's been a dream come true," Jett said. "It's been fun and busy learning the streets from Sgt. Kendall." Jett and Crump began their 18-week academy training on March 17. Crump, 23, is a 2009 graduate of Harrison County High School. He enlisted in the Army and served as a scout for three and a half years. He completed two tours in Afghanistan and continues as an inactive reserve. "This is something I always wanted to do," Crump said of his new position with the police department. He said he worked at Galls in Lexington, where customers are primarily in law enforcement. He started the process of applying at the Cynthiana Police Department and soon found himself fulfilling the 18-week academy requirement at ECU. "It's been pretty good," Crump said after less than a week on the force. "It's what I expected." Crump and his wife, Shelby Davis Crump, make their home in Cynthiana.

room in the early morning hours of Aug. 3, 2013 and that evidence existed of sexual abuse. The report stated that the male patient had his pants unzipped and the woman was lying in a fetal position on her bed with her pants pulled down over her buttocks. The OIG report claims that an unidentified wet substance was reportedly seen on the woman's buttocks and blankets. Caldwell asserts in the lawsuit that Edgemont attempted to cover-up the abuse by failing to report it immediately to legal guardians, family members, the woman's physician or appropriate state agencies as required by law. "Nothing was reported until many hours later when an employee had a crisis of conscience and notified authorities," Caldwell said. Furthermore, Caldwell alleges that the facility implicated itself further in a cover up by bathing the woman and washing her clothes and blankets to remove evidence of a wet substance that was reportedly on the woman at the time of the discovery. "There has definitely been an effort to cover up this incident. It should never have been allowed to occur," Caldwell said. Edgemont has 20 days from the time in which papers are served to respond to the allegations, Caldwell said. Haefer deferred comment to lawyer Paul Dzenitis who will represent Edgemont in the civil case. "It is Edgemont's policy not to comment on the underlying facts of pending litigation after a lawsuit has been filed. This civil lawsuit presents allegations by the party seeking money damages involving an incident which allegedly occurred over one year ago," Dzenitis wrote in an email statement. "Quality care of residents by the nurses and aides at Edgemont is their utmost concern. Federal law prohibits us from discussing or disclosing any facts or details of any care of any resident. The administration, nurses, and staff have cooperated with police and state agencies at all times in their investigation of what happened. "We look forward to presenting the facts of this case and it's reporting at the appropriate time in the proper venue," Dzenitis statement concluded.

The August incident, combined with other documented deficiencies in 2013 state surveys, led the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) to designate Edgemont as a Special Focus Facility (SFF) earlier this summer.

to completion, he, not surprisingly, turned it to "what we have accomplished." "We have served the community well in keeping government open to them," Jacobs said, adding, "We tried to point out warts as well as those things that make us a special community." Three expansion projects occurred during his 38 years; each adding equipment that allowed the operation to grow with the industry. "On the business side, we've weathered changes in the industry," he said. "Our employment continues to be at the levels of previous years. He was quick to recognize the community for its support of the newspaper. In March 1997, one of the most devastating events occurred in Cynthiana and Harrison County when the South Fork of the Licking River flooded much of the city and some areas of the county. The flood knocked out Cynthiana's water supply, but the newspaper was able to continue operations through an innovative approach to getting water to the presses. Jacobs and his staff filled a 55-gallon drum with water, hooked up an employee's sump pump that was being used to pump out his basement and proceeded to public a special edition for the community. "It would have done little good to publish a special edition if we couldn't get it to the people," said Becky Barnes, editor. Jacobs drove back roads through Harrison County to reach the shelters that were cut off by the flooded waters. He drove over 30 miles out of the way to reach a shelter that would have, under normal circumstances, been only two or three miles away. Because there was also no telephone service, families who were separated during the rescue had no idea where the family members were. The special edition listed shelters and those who were in each shelter. A second publication came a few weeks after the flood waters receded. "Grace" magazine was filled with photographs of rescues and good will. Proceeds from the sale of Grace, which sold out within hours of hitting the newsstands, were used to provide a playground at a temporary housing development for flood victims. The Cynthiana Democrat, Jacobs and his staff, received numerous state and company awards for their efforts to keep the community informed during the disaster. "For every beginning there is an end," Jacobs said. "I'm looking forward to new beginnings." He said he has no definitive plans for retirement. "I think that whatever

I do it will involve my family, my church or the community," he said. He will likely be spending more time on the road between northern Kentucky and Atlanta, where his children and grandchildren reside. Daughter and son-in-law, Katie and Ryan Kelly, live in Atlanta with their twins, Paige and Finn. Son and daughter-in-law, Sam and Katie B. Jacobs, live in northern Kentucky with their son, Ryder. He is an elder and trustee at Cynthiana Christian Church. He is a past president of the Cynthiana Rotary Club and former president of the Cynthiana Optimists Club, former officer and director of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Chamber of Commerce, and former director of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Industrial Foundation. Jacobs' retirement will be celebrated with a reception on Thursday, Aug. 28, at Cynthiana Christian Church, between 4 and 6 p.m. The Jacobs family and the staff of the Cynthiana Democrat invite the public to the reception to honor Jacobs at this milestone.

Getting lost, or discovering that I was on...

My first drive up to Cynthiana was breathtaking. Living in Lexington for three years, I had never truly seen “horse country.” I thought horse country was Lexington. But the drive on US 27 is lush, rolling hills and acres of farm land.

I didn’t know what to expect when I arrived in Cynthiana. Of course, I did my research, found out the history of Cynthiana and read a few Democrats in preparation.

As of this column, I would have driven from Lexington to Cynthiana or vice versa 100 times, and, although it hasn’t lost its beauty, it has become something I have grown used to.

What used to be new and shiny has become a little worn and comfortable.

I may even consider myself somewhat of a Kentuckian after this summer.

As most of you know, my first day at The Democrat I got lost on the way to the newsroom.

My second day, I got lost going to the Hilltop Grill (Trust me, it can happen. Especially when Google Maps says to go in the opposite direction.), and later lost to many different landmarks of Cynthiana.

One would be relieved to know that I can safely find my way around town, for the most part.

I have grown many connections in town, and I have truly grown as a journalist from my experiences.

Beginning as a sub-par photographer, I can now operate my DSLR on manual so that I can shoot raw photos while on assignment. That at least grants me the ability to move up to the mediocre level of photography.

And I will never forget to get close to someone when taking a picture because Becky always tells me before I leave the newsroom, “Remember to get reeeeaaally close! Don’t be afraid.”

I also learned how to report on a vehicle accident, who to talk to in every situation, how to design a news page, how weekly papers differ from dailies, and much more.

I visited a farm and tasted the most delicious tomato (my puppy, Odin, would say the same).

Becky, Robin and Josh have been extremely wonderful (and patient) while working with me and have taught me more than I could have hoped.

Many of you have probably seen me gallivanting around the town with camera, note pad and pen with a huge smile on my face looking optimistic because I have finally realized that I am on the right path to where I am driving/walking to.

Maybe you haven’t seen me or read any of my articles and columns this summer. Either way, thank you. Thank you for accepting me in your community as one of your own for 10 weeks, and I hope that I have made y’all proud to be a part of such a wonderful community.

I remember my first day in the newsroom, nervous as can be, knowing I stuck out like a sore thumb in Cynthiana because no one knew who I was.

Not being the most keen at directions did not make it easier.

After 10 weeks, I feel like I have to pull a “Becky” once and a while by waving out the window of my car because someone I know passed by and waved at me.

However, I did not want to leave without making sure everyone (at least at The Democrat) remembered me.

Becky, Robin, Josh and I have decided that the best way to leave a mark is through a selfie, or an “usie” for group selfie (which is what all the cool kids are calling it these days).

On my last week in Cynthiana, I broke my computer in the office (not literally, it just died), only adding to my remembrance.

I’m happy to announce that I caused just as much chaos leaving town as I did entering it.

Reader applauds camp end with church worship

To the editor:

On Sunday August 3rd, coach Jim Carr & staff brought the HCHS football team to Elmarch United Methodist Church for a time of worship & fellowship, followed by a good meal. This was the final day of his football camp. I commend him for doing this.

Thank God he has the courage and heart to conclude his camp with a day of worship. What we plant today, we will reap tomorrow and these are good seeds planted by a good man. Whether his team wins or loses, they have already won in the eyes of the Lord.

UK Ag students thank Butch Case

To the editor:

Bob Heister and I are “non-traditional” students at the University of Kentucky, College of Agriculture, Department of Horticulture.

Last year we decided we would grow an orchard of Aronia. In May 2014, we planted 600 Aronia plants on a one-acre plot in Harrison County.

Through the Harrison County Extension Office, we connected with Russell “Butch” Case, a Harrison County farmer, for assistance with installing and operating in irrigation system for this orchard. Mr. Case volunteered his time, knowledge, and experience in getting our system in good order. From helping us to decide on what irrigation equipment to use, to actually getting the system fully functional. Mr. Case has been of assistance to us from the start.

We wanted to make you and the community aware of how really special Butch Case has been and publicly recognize Case for giving of himself to help us achieve a dream. Well done Butch Case.

Police jurisdiction to change with inter-local agreement

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Cynthiana could soon be seen through fresh eyes. The Cynthiana City Commission agreed Tuesday night to enter into an inter-local agreement with other Central Kentucky police agencies that will extend jurisdiction boundaries. “Drug dealers don’t stop at the county line,” said Capt. Robert Swanigan of the Georgetown Police Department. Swanigan told commissioners this agreement would allow officers who are traveling through another county or who live in another county to act on crimes in progress and then make a call to the agency of jurisdiction. As it stands, if an officer is off duty in another city or county and witnesses a violation, a call must first be made to the department of jurisdiction to get permission to proceed. “The professional police officer will want to take action,” Swanigan said of an officer witnessing an incident and being unable to step in. “This allows for cooperation at a level I have not seen in my 22 years in law enforcement,” Swanigan said, now that the agreement also allows support in the event of a crisis in other communities. He used the 1997 flood in Cynthiana as an example. He said that instead of CPD being tied up with traffic control, officers from other communities could be called in to handle traffic while the local officers continue their policing efforts. He described the agreement as a regional approach to crime. “We want as many departments as possible,” he said.

Paris, Versailles, Georgetown, the University of Kentucky Security and Kentucky Horse Park have already committed to the agreement. Commissioners voted unanimously to authorize Cynthiana Mayor Steve Moses to sign the agreement. In other business, the commission: •Deferred action on proceeding with enforcement of swimming pool restrictions until they can do more research on their ordinance. The question regarding enforcement relates to fences around yards and the depth of pools. •Approved the second readings of three ordinances that allows for the Planning Commission administrator and building inspector to be able to enforce code violations.

•Approved the first reading of an ordinance providing for conditional uses for allowing electronic graphic display signs. •Acknowledged that Columbia Gas will be repairing Wilson Avenue, which was dug up for maintenance of lines. •Accepted the resignation of Kelli Anderson, who was an E911 telecommunicator. •Hired Ron England as an interim/temporary telecommunicator. •Commended those involved with the organization of Water Day, which was Aug. 2 at Flat Run Veterans Park. •Decided to delay a sidewalk replacement on West Pleasant Street due to the possible need to bid the project. Commissioner Roger Slade said he felt the cost of the project would come in under the bid requirement of $20,000. However, city attorney John Lair reminded commissioners that the commission was written up in the last audit for hedging on bidding out projects. Commissioners agreed to wait until the cost of the project was more clear. •Authorized the mayor to sign necessary papers that will allow the Cynthiana-Harrison County Airport to receive a grant. •Appointed Will Smith to the airport board for a four-year term ending June 1, 2018. Will replaces David Klein who has retired. •Met in executive session to discuss litigation. Following the closed session, Moses announced that the city is “moving forward with the property on Webster Avenue at Battle Grove.”

County agrees to hand off nuisance complaints to P&Z

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

Harrison County Solid Waste Coordinator Herb VonGruenigan is willing to accept a $2,000 cut in pay and relinquish his duties as county nuisance enforcement officer to the Cynthiana-Harrison County Planning and Zoning Commission.

In fact, “he’s tickled to do it,” reported Harrison County Magistrate William Fritz, chair of the county personnel committee, at the regular meeting of the Harrison County Fiscal Court Tuesday night.

In the fiscal court meeting on July 29, magistrates tabled a first reading of an ordinance that would turn over the job duties of county nuisance enforcement to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The ordinance is part of an effort to centralize building inspections and code enforcement for the city of Cynthiana and Harrison County in one office, explained

Bonnie Skinner, director of planning and community development.

One of the reasons magistrates took no immediate action on the ordinance was to get input from VonGruenigan about the position.

Several magistrates said they had received only compliments about the way in which VonGruenigan handled nuisance enforcement issues and questioned if a change was necessary.

VonGruenigan’s primary job duty is as the county solid waste coordinator, Fritz said. In a meeting with Fritz and Judge Executive Alex Barnett, VonGruenigan had no issues with turning over his job and compensation as nuisance coordinator to planning and zoning. “The change would allow him to spend more time concentrating on his primary job duty,” Fritz said.

In addition to the pay cut, another $2,000 would be transferred out of the coordinator’s operating budget because of the reduction on car travel, which was always the biggest expense in being nuisance coordinator.

Having settled that matter, Barnett recommended that the magistrates give the ordinance that would centralize code enforcement a year to operate. He also recommended that the magistrates turn over $4,000 to planning and zoning that would have gone toward county nuisance enforcement.

“We’ll review the matter in a year and see if it will work,” Barnett said.

The first reading passed unanimously. In another matter, Barnett informed magistrates of some good news his office received on Monday.

A company has agreed to bond Harrison County Sheriff Shain Stephens at the same rate as former sheriff Bruce Hampton.

“Everything is almost exactly the same as when Hampton was bonded,” Barnett reported.

The company, Keystone Bonding, based out of Pennsylvania, included the $6 million rider to allow for monthly disbursement of tax receipts, Barnett added.

The annual cost to bond Stephens is about $6,000, which is roughly a thousand dollars higher than it cost to bond Hampton. The biggest part of that cost is the rider, Barnett said.

“However, its worth the expense and within the county budget,” he added.

In other business: •County magistrates agreed to freeze the tax rate for another year at 10.2 cents. It passed a first reading of the tax ordinance on motor vehicles and watercraft at 12.9 cents, which is the same as last year.

•Magistrates reappointed Steve Eads to the Harrison County Board of Adjustments and approved the appointment of Will Smith to the Cynthiana-Harrison County Airport Board. He fills a space left vacant by David Klein who resigned June 30.

•In the road committee report, Magistrate Brad Marshall said that the Bobtown bridge was completed and that the bridge on Cummins had been taken out. Work should be completed on that bridge shortly, he said.

Barnett said that there are three other county bridges that need attention. He anticipates declaring an emergency on the Salem bridge.

Barnett said he has not heard any new information on the Old Lair Road Bridge.

•Barnett updated magistrates on the courthouse. There is a leak where the old air conditioners once stood that needs attention before the walls can be plastered, he said.

Barnett will be seeking bids to repair box gutters to stop the leak. Magistrates suggested several local workers who could do the job.

Athletic Complex fieldhouse is ready for 2014 season

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

Though still awaiting a few details, the new fieldhouse in the Harrison County Schools Athletic complex is complete and ready for use. In fact, the Thorobreds football team has already moved in.

Harrison County Superintendent Andy Dotson and Assistant Superintendent David Case spent the better part of the last school year updating parents and school board members about the progress of two major building projects on the school campus.

The expansion of the high school, highlights of which include a ramp for students with special needs, classrooms for "Project Lead The Way" and a new room for the school band, was completed and occupied by students and teachers last spring.

The new fieldhouse at the athletic complex was completed over the summer, Case said. The football team began using the boys' locker room when practice began for the new season.

As director of facilities, Case had oversight of both construction

The Harrison County Athletic Complex fieldhouse is now open for use by school athletes, teams and coaches.

projects which got underway January 2013.

Players, fans and members of the visiting team will immediately appreciate the convenience of having locker facilities next to the playing fields, Case explained.

At game times, Harrison County and visiting teams had to make due with changing into uniforms at the middle school, then crossing through traffic and fans to get to the field.

"It was an inconvenience at best and it posed a few safety issues," Dotson commented.

In addition to providing a safer place for teams to access the complex's playing fields, the fieldhouse will be a ready shelter for teams during game delays due to lightning and thunderstorms, Dotson said.

The new fieldhouse provides better accommodations for home and visiting teams during football games and soccer matches, Case said. Coaches will especially appreciate the convenience of being able to get indoors at halftime, Dotson added.

The locker rooms are also equipped with dry erase boards and flat screen monitors for coaches and players to review elements of the first half.

Coaches' offices in each locker room are also equipped with audio-visual equipment to review games and practices, Dotson pointed out.

One of the key features of the new fieldhouse is the spacious multi-purpose room which makes up the entire back end of the fieldhouse.

Designed to accommodate any number of practice scenarios, the space is open for use by all the athletic teams.

Case said the school is going to install nets to enable soccer team members to practice goal kicks, golf teams for work on their stroke, or softball/baseball players working on their swing.

The expansion projects came in a little under the projected budget of $4.3 million, Case said, and has allowed the school to add a few extra highlights to the fieldhouse. The nets were purchased through the leftover funding because was designated only for building projects to begin with.

"Through the year, we've been talking about how we made direct purchases for many of the materials that went into the project," Case said. "This strategy involved more work on our part, but it save us about $80,000. We've been able to apply those savings into enhancements for both building projects."

Upcoming in new building projects at Harrison County Schools will be a renovation and upgrade of the welding facilities in the Area Technology Center (ATC) on the hilltop.

That work will be funded through grants secured by the Maysville Community and Technical College, Licking Valley Campus and the Cynthiana-Harrison County Economic Development Authority.

Bumper crop squash not a sure thing

Jeneen Wiche

Columnist
www.

You know all the jokes about people having bumper crops of summer squash? Squash shows up in people's cars or in public spaces because there is so much that the gardener can't even give it away. Well, that's never really been a problem for me. I have a little bit of that problem this year and I give credit to the variety and the fact that it was plated later than usual. Others, however, have not been so blessed.

Some gardeners are being thwarted by squash vine borer, squash bugs and powdery mildew. My only problem this year has been with an occasional bout of blossom end rot when heavy rains hit after a dry spell (this fluctuation in moisture causes a calcium deficiency which can be restored using a 'stop rot' calcium product on the foliage).

If you have wilting squash plants (and it is not due to heat or lack of moisture) you have the squash vine borer; and once symptoms show up there is no cure! Instead you must take preventative measures or perform a surgery of sorts. First keep your eye out for the tiny eggs that are laid on the stem of the plant. The eggs may first appear to be specks of soil so look closely; they are tiny, flat, shiny and mahogany in color. Destroy them. Once the larva matures it will feed on the stem and cut off all nutrients to the plant.

If your plant suddenly wilts and you spy tiny holes in the stems filled with "sawdust" and yellow excrement you missed the egg stage. Split the stem open with a sharp knife to remove the borer, a plump white worm. Cover the injured part of the stem with soil, water well and hope that it recovers. Don't bother if there is a major infestation. There is nothing you can do to revive a dying plant.

If you have a history of squash vine borers in your garden it is a good idea to rotate your squash crop and to turn the soil of your garden (if it is not frozen) several times throughout the winter to expose any overwintering larvae in the soil. And, I have found that Romanesco types of zucchini (like 'Gadzuks') naturally resist borer pressure; and it appears that our Italian heirloom ' and yellow crook neck ' are equally adept. Also, as I mentioned, we planted later than usual because of the cool spring so we missed the most active period of egg-laying for the pest.

On to squash bugs...they are unmistakable in appearance. Their elongated brown bodies have an angular shape similar to stinkbugs. They are somewhat elusive because they stay on the lower leaves where they suck sap from the plant. The sucking causes wilted and dying leaves. Persistence pays off when trying to control squash bugs. Dust the infect plants with Rotenone every 7 days until the numbers drop. Also, look for resistant varieties of squash in the spring of the year. But the best control method that I have used over the years simply involves a board (a 1x6 works like a charm). Lay the board on the ground next to your plants and each morning walk on the board to smash the bugs from their not-so-secret nighttime hiding place.

The covered bridge over Stoner Creek at Ruddles Mills, Bourbon County, was destroyed by fire. The covered bridge was one of the few remaining in this area. It took firemen two and a half hours to extinguish. Three firemen were injured when the firetruck lost control at the intersection of Millersburg and Ruddles Mills roads. The bridge was thought to be at least 100 years old. An investigation is being held to determine the cause of the fire.

A fire at Kawneer Company destroyed a $10,000 rectifier. The large instrument apparently was overloaded and shorted out after a group of smaller rectifiers had stopped operating in a chain reaction. The rectifier was in a small fireproof room and there was no danger of the fire spreading to the rest of the plant.

HMH’s laboratory department begins new era in testing

The Harrison Memorial Hospital (HMH) Laboratory Department announces its new microbiology testing called Polymerization Chain Reaction (PCR). PCR is the most recent state-of-the-art process whereby a small, single strand of DNA is isolated and then duplicated repeatedly until it can be detected.

Since PCR is the most accurate and sensitive procedure available and because DNA is present in all living beings, PCR is used for a wide variety of testing including genetics, gene therapy, forensics investigations and as it pertains to HHM, infectious diseases. The lab instrument is called FilmArray, which is early in development for smaller healthcare facilities. Physicians now can order all tests to cover a specific disease. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has approved the three panels available. The gastrointestinal panel detects 14 species of bacteria, four parasite species, and five virus species, all known to cause gastrointestinal issues. The upper respiratory panel tests for 17 virus species and three species of bacteria. The third panel available is the blood culture identification, which tests for bacteria and three main types of bacterial resistance. Each panel takes approximately one hour to perform, as opposed to the routine bacterial culture which takes 48-72 hours.

“We all commonly suffer from these types of diseases, but this new testing allows us to perform the one test and get multiple results, therefore, zeroing in on exactly the cause of that infection,” says Sheila Currans, HHM Chief Executive Officer.

More panels are in the research phase and are planned to be released in 2015, following FDA clearance. In the future, tests, which were not available for two to three days will be available the same day. The testing will enable patients to receive timely, accurate diagnosis and treatment.

The HHM Laboratory is accredited by the College of American Pathologists (CAP). The CAP Laboratory Accreditation Program, begun in the early 1960s, is recognized by the federal government as being equal or more stringent than the government’s own inspection program.

The HHM Laboratory Department is a full-service lab providing quick, convenient service for lab screenings/testing. The lab is staffed 24 hours, seven days a week and makes every effort to accommodate patients. Special arrangements can be made with advance notice. The lab staff is made up of phlebotomists, medical laboratory technicians (MLT) and medical technologists (MT).

The outpatient laboratory is located on the first floor on your left after exiting the hospital’s main lobby. Private areas are provided for patients to have blood drawn by our qualified phlebotomists. Operating hours are: Monday - Friday from 7:00 a.m. - 6:30 p.m. and Saturday from 7:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.

Additional tests and screenings available are: CBC, or comprehensive blood count; CMP, or comprehensive metabolic panel; BMP, or basic metabolic panel; PT, or prothrombin time; this is commonly used for patients using blood thinners to ensure blood is thin enough; Extensive thyroid testing; Cancer markers, or indicators of progression or remission of disease like prostate and colon cancers; Lipid panel, cholesterol testing for HDL and LDL levels; Urinalysis; DNA collection and paternity testing collections.

Harrison County Tea Party

Our subject today: Our Much Abused Constitution

You are invited to our regular meeting
Tuesday, August 19, 2014 • 7:00 p.m. at Faith Hall
332 Old Paris Pike, Cynthiana, KY

Our Most Valuable Inheritance

From the Harrison County Tea Party, Greetings. This month we turn from our adamant opposition to excessive taxation to the one topic which exceeds all others in importance, the single issue more than any other uniting and driving the Tea party movement, the ideal basic to our common beliefs, that which, to our most cherished convictions, stands as the primary and original source of legitimate government. It is that document new, radical, and unprecedented at its birth which establishes with exact and formal specification the general impulses of self government: The United States Constitution. And, this cannot be emphasized too strongly, not the Constitution as an arcane and esoteric subject accessible only to learned experts, but the plain and simple meaning of the words of the Bill of Rights as obvious to any person born and raised on the common usages of the English language. It is in the direct simplicity of these words that the common citizen finds safe harbor against those abuses of authority which have sometimes characterized organized society. The clarity of these words can frustrate the hired sophistry of rapacious officials and with reverence for these words the humble may assert protection against the powerful saying “you cannot do this, it is unlawful”. The Bill of Rights negates the dictum, “Might makes right”.

Our Founder’s Wisdom

Not by accident, but with full intention, the founders included in the oath of office a declaration of fidelity and allegiance to the Constitution itself and not to any person or office. The Constitution is specified as the sole object of loyalty in the sworn oaths of the president, vice president, congressmen, members of the armed forces, judges, many peace officers, and no doubt others. Allegiance to the words of a document and not to a king was a thing without precedent at the time of the founding. It was and is the defining advance of American genius benefiting eventually the entirety of humanity. It establishes the legitimacy of government on a contract between equals and forbids the idea that one man may rule over others by birthright or superior force. This contract of government contains within itself limitations on its own scope and powers as well as those of the several offices it creates, defining for each individual a sphere of personal freedom and preventing the intrusion of mandatory writ into matters that are ,and should be private. The Constitution is the law which the law itself must obey and outside of authority expressly granted by contract no law is legal.

Necessary Government

Governments are instituted among men to secure the blessings of liberty and civil peace and to them we the people authorize and delegate the almost exclusive right to initiate force or violence to suppress antisocial behaviors. These might include murder, robbery, theft, battery, fraud and innumerable others. Ordinary criminal acts are deterred by fear of the law. Because the impulse to criminality may sometimes occur in those invested with governmental authority limitations and checks on each office are necessary. But more important than legal checks is the requirement of respect and reverence for the rule of law among those so powerful as to have no need to fear it. Absolute power corrupts absolutely and for proof of this we need look no further than the Second Book of Samuel. King David, universally admired as an example of all virtues, abused the authority of his office to contrive the murder of Uriah the Hittite. Those who believe modern officers to be an improvement on the ancients should try imagining one of these perfect hair modernistas facing Goliath unafraid. Despite almost unbelievable technological advances in the 230 years since the writing of the constitution there have been no concurrent improvements in human nature. The pursuit, acquisition and enlargement of political power must inevitably engage the very worst angels of our nature. The most horrific abuses of political power occurred mid 20th century in the most civilized nations of central Europe, and still occur today in the least civilized areas of the Middle east and Africa. We are foolish to consider ourselves a better breed of men. Our Constitution protects us from innumerable troubles so long as each person, and especially those in office hold it to be,in the words of George Washington, sacredly obligatory on all. The Constitution is as relevant and binding today as it was when written and it still says the same things.

The Liberal Assault: The Initial Front

There has been, over the last 100 years, a continuous effort by the liberal progressive faction of our politics to denigrate and deride our Constitution as old fashioned, archaic, and unnecessary to the modern world. Whenever they have achieved, however temporarily, electoral success, they have, through the powers of office, labored to annul incrementally the limitations placed upon government powers and to ratchet step by step the Constitution down into disuse and disrespect. This liberal assault employs several methods. The most damaging comes through the federal judiciary. There is a quirk of legal practice known as the rule of precedent which states that once a mistake has been made, it must always be repeated. When examining a question of constitutionality, a judge must consider previous rulings by other judges relevant to that question, as well as the constitution itself. Thus the original text accretes to itself all manner of previous decisions, and some of them have been very, very bad. This can have no other effect than to first obscure, then modify, and finally contradict the plain meaning of the original document. Thus our inviolable contract of government is modified, not by its own self contained formal process of amendment, but by continuous reinterpretation. A thing which clearly should not be. If Constitutional law is not held to be rigid, unchangeable except by amendment, it will be warped and twisted by the forces of political contention. The power of judicial appointment will be used to populate the federal bench with politicized and giddy-minded persons, well able to strain out a gnat and swallow a camel on command. The Constitution will become the servant and not the master of the dominant political order. This is the liberal project they call “the living constitution”, sensible people from Cynthiana can see it is no Constitution at all. The secondary harm caused by the rule of precedent is that it gives rise to the institution of “constitutional scholars” to convince the public mind that there needs a priestly class to mediate and explain complexities far above the ordinary citizen. These are unnecessary, the original words speak directly to each person.

The Liberal Assault: The Second Front

The second, more practical means by which liberals negate our constitutional protections is through something called agency law. Our ideal of self government is that our elected representatives pass the laws which bind us and dictate broadly the penalties for infractions. Liberal congresses have (foolishly and illegally) delegated rule making authority to federal agencies and departments, congress (and by extension we the people) being the principal, and the several departments being the agents. Now, a person may be fined or imprisoned for violations of rules not only not passed by congress, but which no congressman (or anyone else) has even seen or heard of. This is not due process of law. In recent years this has exploded past the point of insanity, there are uncounted thousands of pages of the federal register, and horror stories of abuse of citizens by agencies appear regularly in those news sources which remain unbiased.

We Solider On

The restoration of constitutional liberty under law is the prime directive of all Tea Parties nationwide. It is a matter of some discouragement that this ideal, to which we happy few are so passionately dedicated is not more widely shared by the general electorate. But this is understandable. These issues intrude very little into everyday life and because such a tiny fraction of people actually experience abuses, it is difficult to awaken people to “an injustice to one is an injustice to all”. If the fact that the federal government dictates the contents of school bake sales, and the EPA will now regulate the woodstoves which we poor people use to heat our homes awakens in you not the slightest whisper of indignation, you indeed slumber deeply. For us The Harrison County Tea Party there is no other course than to persevere, our cause being just and our quarrel honorable. We meet the third Tuesday each month, this month August 19 at the Faith Baptist Church,US27 South,at 7PM.

Three out of four children experience an ear infection before they are three years old

Ear infections are the most common illness in babies and young children. And they can be painful. In some cases fluid and mucus stay trapped in the ear after the infection is over which can also affect your child's hearing.

Here are a few signs to look for:

- Does she tug or pull at her ears?
- Does he cry more than usual?
- Do you see fluid draining out of her ears?
- Does he have trouble sleeping?
- Can she keep her balance?
- Does he have trouble hearing?
- Does she seem not to respond to quiet sounds?

An ear infection can cause temporary hearing problems. Temporary speech and language problems can happen too. If left untreated these problems can become more serious.

A child with an ear infection may show you any of these signs. If you see any of them, call us at:

Three inducted Saturday night to Football Hall of Fame

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

Ronald K. “Butch” Ritchie, John Daniel Herrington and Dr. Chris Kerns were inducted into the Harrison County High School Football Hall of Fame Saturday night in a ceremony held in the high school cafeteria.

Jim Swinford, who served as emcee for the evening, presented a special recognition plaque to Dr. Brian Mulberry. Mulberry, in his brief remarks, encouraged those in attendance to come to the aid of young people whenever possible. “This is a tough time to be a kid,” he noted.

Mulberry’s special recognition was for his work as the team doctor for the past few years and for many behind-the-scene assists that are generally not public knowledge.

Harrison County High School football coach Jim Carr then spoke about the upcoming season and his team’s progress from the just-completed camp.

Carr also thanked the Alumni Association for its monetary help provided for the camp.

Gene Richie briefly recognized the members of the mid 50s Cynthiana Bulldogs who were in the audience.

Richie then introduced his brother, Ronald K. “Butch” Richie, as the first inductee of the evening.

In his acceptance speech, the emotional Richie made reference to his time away from Cynthiana and his fond memories of his time as a Cynthiana Bulldog.

Hall of Fame member Rick Chasteen introduced three-time All State kicker John Daniel Herrington as the next new member of the elite group.

Herrington thanked those who helped him to become the player that he was especially his late father, Ron.

He spoke of his size or lack of size, which helped him and his dad note the need to focus on the kicking aspect of the game rather than the physical part.

Herrington recalled, in a humorous style, a moment of his career where a good kick at the end made up for a less than good decision earlier in the game.

Former Harrison County football coach and current Rowan County mentor Ray Graham was the scheduled presenter for the last member of the 2014 class, Dr. Chris Kerns.

However, due to some family complications, Graham was running a little late and Swinford introduced Kerns.

Kerns, who is the all-time leading tackler in Harrison County football, spoke of his early football career as he grew up in Lexington.

Noting how his team did not win a game during his third and fourth grade years and that he did not ever get to play, Kerns quipped, “I was the worst player on the worst team but I still loved the game.”

After moving to Harrison County in the fifth grade, Kerns grew a little and his drive, determination and faith helped him to become the player who was the unquestioned leader for the Thoroughbreds teams in the early 2000’s.

His 404 tackles are the most by a player at Harrison County, which should stand as the record for a long time.

During Graham’s remarks, he verified what others had said about the dynamic linebacker.

“I have never coached anyone who cared so much about the game,” said the veteran Graham. “He was like a coach on the field both in games and practice. I am proud of how Chris played but even more proud of the man he has become.”

Kerns is in his third year of coaching the Harrison County Middle School football team and spends a lot of his time and money furthering the football fortunes of Harrison County.

The Harrison County Alumni chairman, Jim Furnish, concluded the program by thanking those who made the banquet possible and those in attendance.

Let's Get Out of Control!

In January 2013 I was blessed to be able to go to the Holy Land with our Bishop, Lindsey Davis and His wife, Jennifer Mink Davis. There were many who also attended this journey and came from all parts of Kentucky. We all met in Philadelphia and traveled together on one big plane. It was a long flight which took about 13 hours before landing in Israel. Our flight left very late that evening, and once I boarded the aircraft, even though very excited, I prepared myself to go to sleep for the beginning of the flight.

When I boarded the plane I saw the Captain standing at the cockpit. There were so many switches and gadgets in there I thought to myself, "what a lot to learn." I know nothing about how to control a plane in takeoff, flight, and landing. I do not know how all the controls in the cockpit work, and when flying in the clouds, I couldn't tell you the direction we were going. I might not even be able to tell if we are heading up, down, turning right or left, and all this with speeds up to 500 miles per hour. Yet with being out of control I was able to nod off to sleep.

I allowed myself to be out of control and let the captain be in control. I did not know how everything in the vessel operated. I didn't even know what direction we were heading at all times. But, I knew where I was going, and I trusted the captain of the vessel to get me there.

Mike Coppersmith

Why can't we give God the same trust we give an airplane pilot who is leading the right way?

The Israelites wandered in the wilderness for 40 years to reach a destination that should have only taken 11 days. If they could have just gotten out of control and let Captain Moses lead them, he was leading in the right direction and wanted to take them to God's destination planned for them. Had they gotten out of control their journey would have been shorter, many wouldn't have died, and instead of living in the hot dry desert they would've been living in the land of blessing that was flowing with milk and honey!

It's okay...Get out of control, enjoy the journey, and let God's captain lead you to the promise land.

Jeremiah 29:11 says, "For I know the thoughts that I think towards you, says the Lord, thoughts of peace and not evil, to give you a future and a hope."

Yes, God is Good, and all the time God is Good! May you get out of control and be blessed this day.

Hampton celebrates 50 years as church organist

A 50-year celebration will be held to honor Patsy Palmer Hampton on Sunday, Aug. 17, at 10:45 a.m. at Republican Christian Church.

Hampton has given 50 years of service to her church. She began playing the organ at church when she was 15 years old.

Hampton said she began taking piano lessons from Irene Smith, who played for the First United Methodist Church in Cynthiana, when she was in the first grade. She continued taking lessons through high school and even one college class. Each of the other four Palmer sisters also took piano lessons from Mrs. Smith.

Hampton said the Palmer family would go to the church on Saturday afternoons at her father's request "to listen to Patsy play hymns."

She said it was something her father enjoyed and therefore she enjoyed, too.

She is the daughter of the late Wilson and Jean Palmer, who made sure their girls were in church when they were big enough to go.

It was an influence that Patsy and husband Doug also believed important and saw that their three children, John, Sherri Beth and Brent, were raised in the church.

Hampton has played the organ at many weddings and, she said, regrettably many funerals.

She is also a former educator, having retired in 2003 after 32 years of teaching.

The public is invited to celebrate with Patsy and her family at the celebration.

FIRST DAY AT SAINT EDWARD'S SCHOOL — Students at St. Edward's school got a 48-hour head start on Harrison County this week. Classes began bright and early on Monday, August 8. By Tuesday, kids were already into their regular classroom routines.

Ode to the Greatly Offended among us

One night several weeks ago, my husband said good night, ran into the bedroom and locked the door — something he's done dozens of times, always in a playful, good-natured way, always unlocking it within seconds.

I usually laugh, except when I don't, like that one night several weeks ago.

That night, for whatever reason, I decided to be Greatly Offended.

Even though Barry had unlocked the door seconds after he locked it, as he always does, I didn't stick around long enough to open it. Instead, I grabbed a throw blanket and stomped into the spare room and prepared to sleep on the loveseat, which is not meant to be slept on by an adult, even a pint-size one like me.

But because I was Greatly Offended, I was prepared to Suffer Greatly as we martyrs do. I didn't have my squishy feather pillow, only a hard throw pillow, causing my neck to crink. Plus, my legs, as short as they are, hung over the arms of the loveseat, causing bad words to form inside my heart.

I also couldn't get to sleep. My mind wouldn't shut off because it was too busy multiplying my woeful woefulness.

I could've made a more comfortable bed on the couch in the living room, but that would've detracted from my Great Suffering.

As my daughter said, "It's good to know you're

Nancy Kennedy
Columnist

never too old to be immature."

Meanwhile, my husband, assuming I was happily watching TV, had fallen asleep, oblivious to the drama going on in the room down the hall, which defeats the whole purpose of being Greatly Offended.

It reminded me of the Mother's Day years ago when I ran away from home. Neither of my kids were home and Barry wanted to mow the lawn. He had given me a card and a cake, but I had wanted day-long servitude or something of that nature, which didn't include him mowing the lawn.

So, as he worked in the yard, I got in my car and ran away — to McDonald's. I nursed a cup of coffee along with all my grudges for about an hour until I thought he would be sufficiently sorry and frantic with worry at my disappearance.

I imagined sheriff's cars in my driveway, all-points bulletins issued on my behalf, weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth.

Because that's the whole point of running away, at least when I do it. It's all about making others feel really, really bad. It's about the other person's remorse and repentance.

However, I came home to none of that. When I drove up, Barry was still in the yard and didn't even know I had gone anywhere. As far as he knew, I had been taking a Mother's Day nap or watching a movie.

That's when I determined never to run away again without first making sure my absence would be (a.) noticed and (b.) sufficiently mourned — and my return would be properly celebrated.

Balloons would be a nice touch, don't you think?

In the children's book, "I'll Fix Anthony," Anthony's little brother is ticked. Anthony won't read to him, play checkers with him, and even though the little brother lets Anthony wear his Snoopy sweatshirt, Anthony won't let him borrow his sword.

So, the brother decides that when he's six he'll "fix" Anthony and devises all sorts of evil that only a little brother can inflict on a big brother who stinks.

We are all little brothers plotting evil, aren't we? We're all Greatly Offended, and if you want to be honest, I imagine that you love to be offended as much as I do, although I think I may love it more than you do.

As I started writing this, I asked God about it, about loving to be offended and wanting people to take notice and cater to my whims and such.

Although I can't be sure it was God's voice, I'm pretty sure he said it's caused by thinking of myself too highly and that it would go away when I stop.

I told him I didn't think that would happen any time soon, if at all, and he said that's why Jesus died and that I was covered.

Also that he would help me.

There's truly no hope without grace.

Breds play Alumnus to shoot out in LeBus scrimmage

Former Thorobred Anthony Shirley, left, slides to keep the ball away from junior Gus Garrison.

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The alumni team was probably the youngest team ever to participate in the annual Thorobreds vs. Alumni soccer match and they made things really difficult for the 2014 Harrison County Thorobreds.

The alumni, coached by Charles Honeycutt, was made up of Stephen McCauley, John McCauley, Jordan Gasser, Kyle Foster, Taylor Bolin, Ben Anness, Cody Honeycutt, Hank Whalen, Jordan Kellione, Matt Mastin, Josh Young, Anthony Shirley, Tyler Feedback, Brandon Watkins, Richard Crowdy, Jeffrey Faulkner, and Joey Faulkner.

The match was played in four 15-minute quarters instead of 40-minute halves to allow for more coaching and to give the older players more chances to rest.

The momentum went back and forth throughout the regulation match time as both teams had good ball movement and recovered defensively to keep the other squad out of the goal.

Goal keepers, Tyler Feedback and Jordan Kellione for the alumni, and Chris Ortiz for the Breds, made some good stops along the way to preserve the nil-nil score at the end of regulation.

The penalty kick overtime was won five goals to four by the alumni team as Kellione stopped the fifth try by the Thorobreds.

“It was a great night of soccer and a learning experience for us,” said Coach Nick Hill following the match. “We saw where we stand and what we need to work on. The boys know that they need to go out and work hard in practice to improve each day.”

Hill concluded by thanking the fans who came out to watch the match.

“We hope to see some big crowds at our matches this year,” he said.

The Thorobreds will host Mercer County in a final scrimmage Thursday night, again at LeBus Field. There will be a varsity and junior varsity match beginning at 6 p.m.

Golfers have busy week, rained out Monday in Nicholas County match

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County golf teams have been busy playing and dodging the rain during the past week.

Sarah Holland began play with a solo performance in the George Rogers Clark Invitational on Sunday, Aug. 3, where she shot an outstanding round of 84 to finish in a tie for ninth place in this large tournament.

On Monday, the Fillies played as a team in the CKC Tournament on the course at the Montgomery County Country Club. The Fillies were seventh of the 10 teams playing shooting a 420 team score.

Five Harrison County girls played with the top four scores counting toward the team total.

Holland led the Fillies with a 98 finishing in a tie for 17th. Seventh grader Anna Midden was next with 104 followed by senior Morgan Nelly's 107 and eighth grader Kenzie Jones' 111. Sophomore Tori Aubrey was the other Harrison County performer.

Grant County won the tournament with a team total of 337 followed by George Rogers Clark with 369.

On Thursday, the Fillies traveled to the Maysville Country Club to participate in the Mason County Invitational. Harrison County was ninth in this tournament with a team score of 466.

Holland again led the Fillies, this time with a score of 99.

Jones was next with 114 followed by Midden with 129 and Aubrey with 154.

Grant County was again the winning team as they shot a score of 334.

The Fillies played with-out junior Sarah Durbin, who was out with an injury. She rejoined the team on Monday though the match with Nicholas County held at the Cynthiana Country Club was rained out.

The Thorobreds had two contests before the Monday rain out.

They traveled to Maysville's Country Club on Wednesday Aug. 6, to play in the Mason/St. Pat Invitational.

Fillies battle Cougars in Pendleton County Soccerama

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The northern Kentucky schools are usually tough competition in soccer and the Conner Cougars were no exception Saturday when they faced the Harrison County Fillies.

The veteran Conner girls scored three goals before the Fillies could settle down. They won the scrimmage match 3-1 in the Pendleton County Soccerama.

The Cougars, who dressed seven seniors and seven juniors, attacked early and often in the first 25 minutes of the scrimmage before the Fillies showed some defensive organization and held them at bay.

After Harrison County was able to halt the onslaught, they began to be effective on offense putting the Conner squad on the defensive.

Morgan Puckett placed a perfect corner kick in front of the net and Amelia Bolin drove it into the net with her hip for the Fillies only score right before the half.

The half and the match ended with the 3-1 score in Conner's favor.

“We used the scrimmage to get to know the team and to try and identify our strengths and weaknesses,” said Coach Kevin Gaunce. “We used the scrimmage to evaluate the players in some new positions and we expected some growing pains.”

The Fillies will again scrimmage this Saturday as they travel to the Soccerama hosted by Frankfort High School beginning at 3 p.m.

Let's let everyone play

It seems like each week I need to comment on something before I get into my topic and this week is no exception.

The University of Kentucky's basketball scrimmages being played in the Bahamas has a real local flavor.

All six games will be officiated by Harrison County natives John Hampton, Brent Hampton and Bart Lenox. The three began their "tough" assignment Sunday and will finish this Sunday.

State Rep. Stan Lee of Lexington announced last week that he is introducing a bill to allow children enrolled in a non-public school, including a home school, to participate in public school extra curricular activities.

According to the bill, which is named for former Florida quarterback and home-schooled Tim Tebow, the non-public or home-schooled student would be allowed to play for the public school where they live.

The student would be subject to the fees paid by public school students and also expected to have passing grades etc., which follow the established rules of the public schools.

The student would also be allowed to ride public school transportation to sporting events providing that this does not cause additional expense to the public school.

This proposed bill has some

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

really good parts with little concern for problems as I see it.

One part of the bill states that an individual will play for the school that is in his or her district as long as they offer the activity. If a particular activity is not offered by the local school then the student can choose one that does.

This could lead to some recruiting, but recruiting is already a problem which is largely ignored, so this should not be a deterrent to the bill being passed.

Locally, in the last school year, there were 118 students in 76 home schools in Harrison County. This does not include the students attending St. Edward School, which is a licensed school just like the public schools.

This is a bunch of students many more than I had any idea that there were and I would venture to say that I am not alone there.

One of the bill's sections requires that these students be immunized, have a physical examination, have insurance and be subject to the same age requirements as the public school students.

The immunization part will be a problem I would guess since many of us know of home schooled families that do not believe in immunization.

This also could be a good thing too as maybe some child will so badly want to be a ball player or band member or speech team member that they will change the minds of their parents to get them immunized.

I have long thought that parents who pay school taxes should have the right to have their children participate in whatever activities that the local public school offers.

I see the argument that it is the parents' choice to send their child to an alternate school rather than the public school. However, in many cases, the school system forces a caring parent who has the means to seek a better education for their child to do so.

I am not saying this is the case in all schools, but Lee's proposed bill would cover all schools, not just the poor ones.

We must realize that in the commonwealth there are many schools that are not as good as Harrison County and some that are better.

The bill proposed could be a way to better educate all children of the commonwealth as there are many educational facets of extra curricular activities.

Maroon-White game shows defense ahead of offense

Both the Maroon and White defenses proved to be the dominant force for their teams as the Maroon-White scrimmage managed only one score during the semi-live scrimmage Friday night on Lawson Field.

The Ingles Stadium controlled battle was a demonstration of the fact that defense usually is ahead of offense in the early part of the season.

Coach Jim Carr said he was disappointed at first as the scrimmage went on, but after viewing the film he felt better about the effort.

“We were better than I originally thought but we still have a lot of work to do,” noted the third-year coach. “I saw some good individual play, but as a team we have to do many things better.”

The Thorobreds will play a live scrimmage Friday night on the home field of the Pendleton County

Wildcats. The game is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Youth football forms available

Until school is in session, anyone wishing to pick up the sign-up sheets for youth football may do so at two locations in Cynthiana. Joe Cochran's State Farm Insurance Office and Licking Valley Dentistry will have the forms available during their regular business hours. After school is back in session, the forms will be available in the elementary school offices.

This year, the youth football program will consist of three teams per school with K and first playing flag football. Second and third grades will make up a league and fourth and fifth grades making another. The teams will represent Eastside, Northside, Southside and Westside schools. Students from St. Edward's Catholic School or home schooled children will be placed on one of the four teams.

The Breds finished 10th in this 14-team event, which featured the teams figured to compete for the region title.

Mason County won the meet with a team score of 303 followed by Bourbon County and Elliott County, which each tallied 314.

The Thorobreds fired a score of 370, which was six strokes behind ninth place Highlands.

Reese Asher was the leading scorer for the Thorobreds shooting 87. Will Hicks and Peyton Browning each shot 90 and Anthony Vascotto tallied 103.

On Saturday, the Thorobreds drove to participate in the Powell County Tournament held at Beechfork Golf Course.

Harrison County finished third of the 10 teams in the contest shooting a team score of 324.

Estill County won the tournament with a total of 309 followed by Montgomery County in second with 315.

Hicks was the lead man on this day with a 78 followed by Jake Jones with a 79. Asher shot an 81 and Browning finished the scoring with an 86.

The teams were scheduled to be back in action on Wednesday traveling to Montgomery County for a dual meet.

The boys then host Bourbon County at the Cynthiana Country Club on Thursday with the girls traveling back to Mt. Sterling for a tournament on Saturday. The Fillies will then play host to Bourbon County's Lady Colonels at the Cynthiana Country Club on Monday.

The Harrison County School District obtains written consent from a parent or eligible student (age 18 or who is attending a postsecondary institution), before disclosing personally identifiable information to an entity or individual not authorized to receive it under FERPA.

For students who have been determined eligible for Special Education, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parents when they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. The Harrison County School District may destroy the educational records of a child without parent request three years after they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may later be needed for Social Security benefits or other purposes. The Harrison County School District may retain, for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student's name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance records, classes attended, grade level completed, and year completed.

Children eligible for Special Education include those children with disabilities who have autism, deaf-blindness, developmental delay, emotional-behavior disability, hearing impairment, mental disability, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, other health impairment, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, or visual impairment and who because of such an impairment need Special Education services.

Children eligible for 504 services include those children who have a current physical or mental impairment that currently substantially limits some major life activity which causes the student's ability to access the school environment or school activities to be substantially limited.

The Harrison County School District has an ongoing "Child Find" system, which is designed to locate, identify and evaluate any child residing in a home, facility, or residence within its geographical boundaries, age three (3) to twenty-one (21) years, who may have a disability and be in need of Special Education or 504 services. This includes children who are not in school; those who are in public, private, or home school; those who are highly mobile such as children who are migrant or homeless; and those who are advancing from grade to grade, who may need but are not receiving Special Education or 504 services.

The district's "Child Find" system includes children with disabilities attending private or home schools within the school district boundaries who may need special education services.

The Harrison County School District will make sure any child enrolled in its district who qualifies for Special Education or 504 services, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided appropriate Special Education or 504 services at no cost to the parents of the child.

Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Harrison County School District find any child who may have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. The District needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child; the name, address, and phone number(s) of the parents or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if Special Education or 504 services are needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways the Harrison County School District collects the information needed. The information the school District collects will be used to contact the parents of the child and find out if the child needs to be evaluated or referred for Special Education or 504 services.

If you know of a child who lives within the boundaries of the Harrison County School District, who may have a disability, and may need but is not receiving Special Education or 504 services, please call 234-7110 or send the information to:

Farming

Farm Bill Implementation progress update

Continues, moving forward on every title of the Farm Bill

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced continued progress on implementing the Agricultural Act of 2014 (the 2014 Farm Bill), which was signed into law nearly six months ago on Feb. 7, 2014. The 2014 Farm Bill reforms agricultural policy, reduces the deficit, and helps grow America's economy.

Since the Farm Bill was signed into law, USDA has made progress throughout all 12 titles of the 2014 Farm Bill.

Among the first major Farm Bill initiatives to be implemented were disaster relief programs for livestock producers, many of whom have been waiting years for assistance. After the 2008 Farm Bill passed, it took over one year to set up disaster assistance programs. In 2014, it took under 10 weeks. As of July 31, 2014, approximately 165,000 claims have been processed totaling $1.85 billion disbursed through the Livestock Indemnity Program, Livestock Forage Disaster Program, and Tree Assistance Program.

The 2014 Farm Bill established new risk management programs for producers, some of which USDA is in the process of developing and others that are in operation already.

Innovative new conservation programs have also been established, including the Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP), an entirely new approach to conservation. RCPP brings together businesses, universities, tribes, municipalities and other non-government partners to identify and invest in creative solutions to the conservation issues in their local areas. In the coming months, USDA will begin awarding funding for RCPP projects designed by local partners specifically for their region.

Additionally, USDA recently incorporated the Foundation for Food and Agriculture Research (FFAR) and announced the appointment of a 15-member board of directors. The new foundation will leverage public and private resources to increase the scientific and technological research, innovation, and partnerships critical to boosting America's agricultural economy.

For more information visit www.usda.gov/farmbill.

Harrison County Field Day scheduled for Sept. 5

By GARY CARTER, Co. Ext. Agent for Agriculture

The 2014 Harrison County Field Day will be held on Friday, Sept. 5 at the farm of Phyllis Malone and son Mike Malone on Munson Road. The program will begin at 4 p.m. with a tour of the farm.

The Malone Farm includes 45 acres of alfalfa used for feed on the farm and a developing cash hay program. Also the farm is the home of a Registered Charolais herd.

Numerous areas will be discussed including hay equipment demonstrations, alfalfa production management and hay marketing. The cattle area will be observed with a discussion of crossbreeding. We will also look at equipment which has been purchased with Phase I Cost Share Funds.

The Field Day will conclude with a dinner prepared by the Harrison County Beef Cattle Association. Everyone is encouraged to attend. Please call 234-5510 if you plan to attend.

Kentucky producers still have time to apply for Direct Farm Ownership Loan Program

Low-interest loans can help producers start or expand farms

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Kentucky Farm Service Agency (FSA) announces that farmers and ranchers still have time to apply for low interest 2014 loans available through FSA's direct farm ownership program. The deadline to submit applications is Sept. 30, 2014.

Eligible producers can borrow in direct farm ownership loans to buy or enlarge a farm, construct new farm buildings or improve structures, pay closing costs, or promote soil and water conservation and protection. The interest rate on select loans can be as low as 1.5 percent with up to 40 years to repay.

For more information about the program and other loans administered by FSA, visit any FSA county office or www.fsa.usda.gov.

USDA sending acreage history, yield reports to help producers prepare for New Farm Bill programs

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) announces that farmers should start receiving notices updating them on their current base acres, yields and 2009-2012 planting history. The written updates are an important part of preparing agricultural producers for the new safety net programs established by the 2014 Farm Bill.

Verifying the accuracy of data on a farm's acreage history is an important step for producers enrolling in the upcoming Agriculture

Data will help farmers select the coverage options that will fit their needs

Risk Coverage (ARC) program and the Price Loss Coverage (PLC) program.

By mid-winter all producers on a farm will be required to make a one-time, unanimous and irrevocable election between price protection and county revenue protection or individual revenue protection for 2014-2018 crop years. Producers can expect to sign contracts for ARC or PLC for the 2014 and 2015 crop years in early 2015.

Covered commodities include barley, canola, large and small chickpeas, corn, crambe, flaxseed, grain sorghum, lentils, mustard seed, oats, peanuts, dry peas, rapeseed, long grain rice, medium grain rice (includes short grain rice and temperate japonica rice), safflower seed, sesame, soybeans, sunflower seed, and wheat. Upland cotton is no longer a covered commodity.

August 2014: Producers receive letters notifying them of current bases and yields and 2009 to 2012 planting history.

Late Summer 2014: ARC and PLC online tools become available. Owners have opportunity to update yields and reallocate bases for ARC/PLC purposes.

Winter 2014: ARC/PLC one-time elections occur.

Early 2015: ARC/PLC sign-up for 2014 and 2015 starts.

Visit www.fsa.usda.gov or the FSA office at 103 Rodgers Park Drive, 859-234-2646, for information about FSA and the 2014 Farm Bill programs.
